About Roosevelt University: Roosevelt University is nationally recognized for providing transformational experiences and opportunities for discovery that create socially conscious citizens who are leaders in their professions and their communities. Founded in 1945 on the principle that higher education should be available to all academically qualified students regardless of class, racial or ethnic origin, gender, or age, Roosevelt University is an independent, non-profit university that today enrolls close to 5,000 students and is among the most diverse institutions of higher education in the country. In recent years, Roosevelt has rapidly evolved from a primarily part-time, commuter student body to a more traditionally aged, full-time population. The university's urban campus, anchored by Chicago's historic landmark Auditorium Building by the renowned architect, Louis Sullivan, also includes a 32-story vertical campus housing high-tech classrooms and labs, student residences, and faculty and administrative offices; and an athletics center opened in 2012. Since 1996, the university has also had a permanent presence in the Northwest suburbs at the Schaumburg campus, where Roosevelt's colleges offer many professionally-oriented programs.

About the Counseling Center: The mission of the Counseling Center at Roosevelt University is to facilitate the cognitive, emotional and social development of students to enable them to optimally reach their academic and personal goals. The Counseling Center fully embraces the mission of the University, attending to issues of social justice, striving towards multicultural competence and serving the entire University community. The Counseling Center staff provides a variety of services to help students understand their problems and themselves, achieve satisfying relationships, improve their academic performance, and make effective and satisfying career and life choices.

Minimum Requirements: The successful candidate must possess a doctorate degree in Clinical or Counseling Psychology. Experience in a university counseling center in areas such as clinical assessment, therapy, crisis management, training, supervision and mentoring, consultation, and administration and management of program development is preferred. Active licensure in the State of Illinois within six (6) months of hire is required. Strong organizational skills and exceptional interpersonal, verbal and written communication skills are needed. Experience in an urban college or university with a residential and large commuter student population is preferred.

To Apply: Complete the online application at <https://jobs.roosevelt.edu/postings/3917> which includes providing a letter of interest, current vitae, and names and phone numbers of three professional references (including current supervisor). Preference will be given to candidates who apply by June 23, 2017. The position is available August 1, 2017.

Roosevelt values the inclusion of a broad spectrum of students, staff, and faculty in the life of the University. We celebrate and foster global perspectives. We encourage the open and respectful expression of ideas and differences in thoughts, experiences, and opinions.

Roosevelt University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and invites applications from women and minorities as well as other qualified individuals.
